Prerequisites

- No prerequisite is requested, except an interest in biology and/or medicine.
- This course is proposed as a specialized session in the framework of the European Athens week, open to attendants from industry

Learning Objectives

- The domain of health and medicine is currently confronting a series of transformations: the increasing entanglement between biological sciences and medical practice; the emergence of new actors (patient organizations, health safety agencies) who actively intervene into biomedical activities and health issues; the development of ethical concerns on medical experimentation and research protocols.
- The course aims at providing an understanding of these transformations, with a particular focus on their social and political relevance both at national and European levels.
